

COO at Amidea

Amidea is on a journey to increase human health with psychedelic-based drug products. We are now looking for the next addition to the team to drive and accelerate our growth.

The COO at Amidea will have broad responsibilities that range from managing day-to-day operations, driving commercial collaborations and growth strategy together with the CEO. We will jointly build the foundation of the organization now and make sure we grow and expand according to plan. As COO you will report directly to the CEO.

We are a tight knit team with a big mission, and that means that everyone needs to be able to roll up their sleeves and at the same time be deeply involved in the strategic choices we make.

The responsibilities of the COO at Amidea will include but not be limited to:

- Set comprehensive goals for performance and growth
- Evaluate performance by analyzing and interpreting data and metrics and identify possible operational improvements
- Establish policies that promote structure, company culture and vision
- Assist CEO in fundraising ventures
- Overall, the COO will have a responsibility for ensuring scalability across the company

You are a great fit if you:

- Are an operational generalist, who can contribute both in the details as well as to high level strategic discussions.
- Have experience from management in a growth-oriented company
- Have experience from project management connected to operational excellence and ensuring scalability
- Have academic and/or working experience of biology/pharma
- Believe in the potential of psychedelic substances as medicines

Would be good if you:

- Have experience of working with patent applications
- Speak Swedish

About Amidea

Founded in Stockholm, Sweden in 2020 by researchers and medical doctors with the vision to improve human health through optimized psychedelic drug products. With a broad competence from big and small pharma, clinical work and decades of research, a number of candidate drugs are under development. Preclinical trials are ongoing. Amidea is funded by Norrskan and is in close collaboration with their tremendous expertise.

Amidea has exciting times ahead with commercialization and growth. To boost this process, we want to welcome a COO to the team!

Does this feel like you? Make sure to apply for the job today as the recruitment process is ongoing.